Dozens of police cars and ambulances are at the scene.

Eyewitnesses told RT they heard a powerful explosion. Some said they saw a flash in the sky and smoke rising from the building.

Ukraine has stepped up strikes deep inside Russia in recent weeks, launching hundreds of kamikaze drones a day. Although successful strikes in Moscow are rare, Ukrainian drones damaged high-rise buildings in Moscow City, the capital's iconic business district, in 2023.

Seems Ukraine is willing to attack anything to win, the question is can Moscow beat Ukraine down before too much damage is done to Russia, hard to say, victory could be a decade away a this point, and Ukraine is aided more and more by the west to strike anywhere in Russia sooo

It bespeaks that the predatory or hawkish EU is keen or zealous about assaulting or marauding while on the other side it talks about peace without compassion towards ordinary Russian citizens. The western media has instilled or infused into the minds of people Russian antipathy or Russophobia. But that campaign or drive boomerangs. The EU plutocrats are running the EU and they field EU loquacious chatterboxes or blabbermouth to traduce or malign Russian image.

The difference is that Russia argues its case through international law. Ukraine doesn't. It needs the diplomatic protection of the West because this is terrorism.
