Supplying US-made long-range Tomahawk cruise missiles to Ukraine will not help end the conflict, Russian Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Maria Zakharova has said.

She made the remarks after CNN reported that the Pentagon had given the White House approval to supply Tomahawks to Ukraine, after concluding that the move would not deplete US stockpiles. Nevertheless, US President Donald Trump has declined to provide the missile, which is capable of striking targets deep inside Russia.

“As the current situation and previous years have shown, it is clear that militarization and arms deliveries – especially to a terrorist regime – will not lead to a settlement. Moreover, such actions would contradict the campaign promises made by the current US administration,” Zakharova told reporters on Saturday.

Trump has long promised to mediate an end to the conflict between Russia and Ukraine and revived direct negotiations with Russia earlier this year. However, no breakthroughs were achieved during his summit with Russian President Vladimir Putin in Alaska in August or in the renewed Russia-Ukraine talks in Istanbul.

Trump recently postponed a planned summit with Putin in the Hungarian capital, Budapest, and imposed additional sanctions on Russia's oil trade. At the same time, he rejected Ukrainian leader Vladimir Zelensky's request for Tomahawks, saying the US needs them “to protect our country.” Trump also stated that Ukrainian troops would have to undergo extensive training to operate the missiles. “We know how to use it, and we're not going to be teaching other people,” he said.

Putin warned last month that he would consider the delivery of Tomahawks to be a further escalation and promised a “very strong response.”

And now we will witness once again a terrifying Putin's revenge for crossing red lines. Putin will once again, for the 40.000 time, issue a stern warning: Russia reserves the right to retaliate against colleagues, partners, and friends from the unknown Western country across the ocean who crossed the red line. Of course, the Western politicians will drop to the floor laughing, and hopefully someone will get a heart attack, which is not uncommon amongst old people.

Possibly just semantics, but « the Pentagon had given the White House approval » possibly reveals the true residence of power in the US.

It is pointless to argue that Tomahawks will not bring peace. Western leaders plan to bring death to Russia, not peace to Ukraine. Russia must prepare accordingly.

Of course Tomahawks won't bring «Peace to Ukraine»! That was never the purpose. Ukraine is merely the proxy fighting for the west's goal of inflicting a «Strategic Defeat on Russia». Tomahawks only ever had two purposes: Keep the war going through escalation. And, 2) Inflict fear among the Russian people so dissension is created that the CIA and NGOs can take advantage of to orchestrate another coup.

Dealing with the USA and Emperor Trump along with his bromance little friend from Kiev needs to be brought up with a sharp retaliatory response. Quite rightly Russia is holding back at moment but a reckoning is not far away. More mouthing and threats from the deluded West will get a response and then the wailing will start. The Fuel supplies in Europe look poor and a cold January/February could dull the delusion that makes them all so brave at the moment.

Should the USA pass over it's lethal weapons to Ukraine or any other country to attack Russia, kill Russians, well, we have warned this several times, Venezuela, Cuba deserve to be supplied with weapons such as Oreshnik, Buverestnik, and others to defend themselves against the USA. Tit for Tat is what Washington respects.

Trump is grasping at straws because he is afraid to do the right thing—stopping all forms of aid and ordering all USA government employees and citizens to leave Ukraine. Continuing the war is easier than being an actual President, like Kennedy or Washington, and stopping the unnecessary deaths of both Russian and Ukrainian troops. Impeachment or 25th Amendment removal is desperately needed for this grifter-in-chief.

'The potential delivery of US made long range Tomahawk missiles to Ukraine will not help to end the conflict', Russian Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Maria Zakharova has said. That is such a lame reply to the US military threat to strike targets deep into Russia that it almost ensures the bully gangster will push further. I realize that you in the Kremlin are under the delusion that the Pentagon and Trump are not on the same team, that he and his senior cabinet members are not briefed daily by the CIA and the Pentagon. Couldn't you or one of your cohorts in the Ministry come up with a reply that would put Trump off balance, like we will fully mobilize.

Oil, oil, oil.

Trump has instructed the Pentagon to prepare a plan for an invasion of Nigeria. They say there are a lot of Christians being killed there.

...

Nigeria is a member of OPEC and the largest oil producer.

Nigerian Foreign Ministry spokesman Kimibi Ebienufa rejected Trump's claims of mass killings of Christians in the country and its designation as a «notable concern»: «These claims have no basis in reality, as Nigerians of all faiths have long coexisted peacefully, living, working, and praying together.»

...

Trump has been systematically targeting oil-producing countries such as Venezuela, Nigeria, Russia, and the countries that purchase their oil, including China and India.
