Momentum from Trump-Putin Alaska summit exhausted – deputy FM

The impulse to resolve the Ukraine conflict has been extinguished by European supporters of prolonged war, the deputy foreign minister said

The momentum generated during the Alaska summit between Russian President Vladimir Putin and his US counterpart Donald Trump has been "exhausted," Deputy Foreign Minister Sergey Ryabkov has said.

The diplomat claimed that the "powerful impetus" to find a settlement to the Ukraine conflict was extinguished by Russia’s opponents and the efforts of “supporters of a ‘war to the last Ukrainian,’ primarily among Europeans.”

Putin and Trump met in Anchorage, Alaska in mid-August to discuss finding a path to resolving the Ukraine conflict, as well as restoring bilateral ties between Moscow and Washington.

Although no breakthrough was achieved, both sides hailed the meeting as constructive, and the White House stated that there was now a “light at the end of the tunnel and an opportunity for lasting peace.”

However, Moscow has since repeatedly stressed that Kiev does not appear to be actually interested in peace. Russian officials have consistently accused Ukraine and its Western European backers of actively undermining Trump’s peace efforts.

In recent weeks, Trump has also expressed frustration with the lack of progress towards a settlement. Late last month, he appeared to have shifted his stance, claiming Ukraine has an opportunity to “fight and win all of Ukraine back.”

Nevertheless, Moscow has said it remains open to a peace deal. The Russian president’s spokesman, Dmitry Peskov, said on Tuesday that the Kremlin hopes that Trump maintains “the political will to move the Ukrainian settlement toward peaceful political negotiations.”

Last week, Peskov also stated that Putin is still ready and willing to host Trump in Moscow as per the invitation extended after the Alaska summit.

This basically says Russia is ready for all out direct war with NATO. If need arrives Russia will take the war to US soil. Escalation will rise at an exponential way.

So what is next? Ukraine continues to strike into Russia? Israel continues to strike and displace thousands of people from Gaza? The west continues to give weapons to strike? The west continues to steal billions from Russia just like Alaska, moldova, Ukraine and more (all of which previously mentioned are legally Russian territory and Russia should take it back by force)? When is enough actually enough. The invasion of crimea was more than a decade ago when the west attempted a takeover. Russia and allies have superior firepower. Strike at the heart already. Israel should be no more and an amazing leader like Putin knows this Obviously Trump over estimated his control of the situation. The war mongering EU brought him down to earth very swiftly smashing his grandiose vision of himself.

The cult west does not want peace with anyone. Not even each other. They use and abuse each other for power and money. They intend, with all sincerity, to enslave the whole world. They make others toil to enrich themselves. To live a life of immortality to any consequences while dictating orders to the weak and defenseless. They honestly believe they can achieve this because they are a cult. Even at the gallows they will still think some superpower entity will save their righteous cause.

Russia has nobody to blame but themselves for the massive blunder they are stuck in. Nobody feels bad for russia. Don't start wars if you don't like the results.
