Zelensky to ask for Tomahawks this week – Trump

The Ukrainian leader has repeatedly signaled that he wants the long-range cruise missiles to strike deep into Russian territory

US President Donald Trump has said Ukraine's Vladimir Zelensky will again ask for American-made Tomahawk cruise missiles at their meeting on Friday.

Speaking at a press briefing at the White House on Tuesday, Trump was asked if he expects to discuss arms supplies with Zelensky at their upcoming meeting.

"I know what he has to say. He wants weapons. He would like to have Tomahawks," Trump said. "Everyone else wants Tomahawks. We have a lot of Tomahawks."

he would provide the cruise missiles to Kiev if the Ukraine conflict "is not going to get settled." The supplies would be "a new step of aggression," he admitted.

The weapons have a maximum range of 2,500km (1,550 miles), which means they could potentially allow Ukraine to strike

Just days earlier, the president said that

Moscow and other cities even further into Russian territory.

Supplies of these missiles to Kiev would mark a “new stage of escalation,” Russian President Vladimir Putin said earlier this month. “Using Tomahawks without the direct involvement of American military personnel is impossible.”

He added that while deliveries of the weapons could not alter the course of the conflict, they would destroy any recent diplomatic progress between Moscow and Washington.

Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov has echoed the concern, arguing that Kiev cannot be trusted to handle the weapons responsibly. Kremlin officials have repeatedly accused Ukraine of misusing Western-supplied weapons for deliberate strikes on civilians.

Mark my words well: If stupid Trump gives Tomahawks to Ukraine, they will be aimed directly at the Kremlin. Zelensky has nothing to lose and he knows it. He will hope one gets through. He will fire them off, then be on a plane to the USA within an hour.

Possibly the delivery and use of this weapon will be a good thing for Russia? The Russian Military will quickly find a way to disable or shoot down this waepon and the fear factor will be removed. Possibly a good thing?

Whoever buys them, ur1nians aren't going to the ones to use them. This is undoubtedly declaration of war against Russia by merikans. Regarding that rich pedophile in chief in wh he has 0 clue about military science just as he knows about trade.

And what will be the answer from Russia when Ukraine is going to use tomahawks? I think when Moscow is hit that then all goes on warp speed, with Sarmats as answer. The problem is that the comedian has no plan and just do something without considering the results. I think with tomahawks the SMO becomes a full blown war.

As long as Russian leadership officials keep saying this weapon supply won't change anything blah, blah, it is imminent give away there won't be any decisive or constitutional response, and west goes ahead with supplies. Unless Russian leadership(actual Putin officials) make a pre-emptive warning, that such weapon supplies will trigger imminent Nuclear response, the west will keep escalating. Germany as instructed by american deep state conducted another pre emptive psyop statement-» Putin will strike EU» but why just before the Tomahawk supplies? Its crystal clear, they will strike tomahawk very close to EU border with ukraine and then back to EU, with Russian intel obviously finding it out later
